

Abstract

The present invention relates to a packaged product (1) comprising a package having a liquid reservoir (2) for containing a product, preferably a cleaning product, and a means for delivering the product (4) in a labour efficient way and in a uniform manner. This is achieved by a packaged product (1) in which the means (4) for delivering the product preferably comprises an electrically driven pump (5), and further comprises a spray arm (220), the spray arm (220) having at least one dispensing opening (225). The spray arm (220) being preferably either extended or extendible.